DCI Portrait: On this date I confirmed with Mr. Houston the plan for Mr. Draper. He said that as far as he knows Mr. Draper will arrive in Washington on the evening of 5 April and will come into the building on the morning of 6 April to begin working. I told Mr. Houston that I felt that it might be a bit awkward to have Mr. Draper use the Executive Dining Room since it would lead to a considerably wider knowledge of his mission than I understood to be desired. I counter suggested that perhaps General Counsel and Support Staff people might plan to take Mr. Draper to lunch, for example, in the Rendezvous Room. Mr. Houston agreed that the Executive Dining Room was not a major consideration but pointed out that he might well take Mr. Draper as a guest and that he felt that with the number of friends Mr. Draper has in the Agency and around Washington his presence and his mission would probably be quite widely known. I also talked to Mr. Osborn and he will review and arrange necessary badging to facilitate Mr. Draper's access to the building.

I arranged to look at the space with [REDACTED] on 2 April and at 25X1A that time will lay on the arrangements for platform, anti-glare protection, furniture adjustments, etc.
